Eima is a member of TGF's commercial litigation group. Prior to joining TGF, Eima practiced litigation in New Brunswick with a focus on corporate, commercial and construction matters. Eima has gained significant client and courtroom experience and continues to build her practice at TGF with large, complex litigation matters.

Eima obtained her Juris Doctor from the University of Windsor Faculty of Law and completed her articles at a regional firm in New Brunswick. Eima's academic background in psychology enriches her skill set to support her work in litigation. In addition, her attentive, empathetic demeanour is frequently noted by clients, which complements her meticulous, thorough and driven approach to resolving legal issues.

While she pursued her legal education, Eima was an active contributor to the profession, working as a research assistant, volunteering in a placement at the Legal Assistance of Windsor, and volunteering with Pro Bono Students Canada. She more recently served on the Law Society of New Brunswick Provincial Libraries Committee.
