Rebekah works in both of TGF's practice groups, Restructuring and Insolvency and Commercial Litigation. Rebekah initially joined the firm as an articling student, and during that time she was involved in various aspects of the restructuring and insolvency proceedings and commercial litigation cases led by TGF lawyers. She continues to work on a broad range of mandates from both of TGF's practice areas.

Rebekah is often commended for her strong analytical and communication skills. She is known for being meticulous and detail-oriented in her work, and enjoys thinking creatively to address novel legal questions.

Rebekah completed her law degree at Queen's University and actively demonstrated her passion for the law through her involvement inside and outside of the classroom. While in law school, Rebekah volunteered with Pro Bono Students Canada and United for Literacy. Rebekah also served as the Vice President of Events for Queen's Real Estate Law Association. Prior to law school, Rebekah earned her Bachelor of Arts from Western University, where she graduated as her class Gold Medalist.
